Over Situation

NEW YORK, March 13.—There were in 1921—the year in which unemployment in the United States was worse than at any time since 1893—23 per cent more suicides than in the preceding year. The number was approximately 20,000. Of that number, $40 or more than two a day, were in New York City. Eight hundred and fifty-eight were children averaging between 15 and 16 years old, and—309 of those who ended their own lives are described as "soldier boys."

The figures are made public in the annual report of the Save-a-Life League, 108 W. 77th St. The accompanying comments make reading which, if not very instructive, at least is interesting, and which if not tragic would be funny.

Almost every condition of existence which is a result of present-day social and industrial life is described as a cause of the frightful number of suicides; and remedies which are seriously suggested are stricter laws regarding the purchase of drugs and fire arms. Loss of employment is mentioned, almost casually, among other causes, including reaction from the war.

Complexity of modern life, general unrest and even women's mode of dress are blamed in large part.

Other data, however, compiled from the statistics of life insurance companies, of the national committee for mental hygiene, and various organizations, show that the astounding increase in the number of cases of self-destruction is a direct result of unemployment. In 1920 the suicide rate among insured wage earners was less than one-half what it was in 1911. Then came what the "captains of industry" are pleased to term the period of readjustment and the suicide rate shot up. Exactly a year ago a bulletin issued by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.—putting the statement in the form of a question—asked: "Has the less favorable industrial situation of the latter part of 1920 and the early part of this year resulted in increased numbers of suicides and homicides? There has been more of each recently in the wage-earning group of the population."

Last August, the press called attention to the fact that Tuesday had become suicide day in New York and other large cities. Jobless men and women who had answered—unsuccessfully—the Help Wanted ads in the Sunday newspapers, killed themselves on that day—victims of the war for democracy and its aftermath of "putting labor in its place."

Still one more sidelight may be thrown on the climbing suicide figures. Last July Dr. Thomas W. Salmon, New York, who was a colonel in the army medical corps during the war, told a United States senate committee that in 1920 400 ex-soldiers committed suicide in New York state, most of whom "would be alive today if they had been given the proper attention." Then he added, "It is time to think about the 400 or more young ex-soldiers who may commit suicide in the next year."

At that time, he said, in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut there was not a single hospital bed for the accommodation of veterans under observation for mental diseases resulting from the war, although there were in that area 410,000 ex-service men.

THUGS BIND 6 IN MANSION, HOLD REVEL, GET $25,000 IN BOOZE

Photo diagram shows interior of drawing room of Hart mansion, near San Francisco, as hooch robbers revealed; lower picture shows liquor vault door dynamited; insert, Julien Hart, wealthy silk merchant.

A sextet of hooch bandits invaded the home of Julien Hart, wealthy silk merchant, at Manito Park, near San Francisco, while Miss Mary Conway was his guest. The thugs proceeded to bind the servants and forced Hart and his fair guest to remain seated on a davenport in the drawing room while they blew the steel door to the concrete vault in which he kept his liquor supply. For seventeen hours they reveled in bacchanalian debauch while their helpless victims looked on. The bandits mixed courtesy with brutality toward their unwilling hosts. When Miss Conway complained of being cold the bandits' leader ordered one of his men to build a fire in the grate. When one of the bandits approached Miss Conway in a threatening manner he was beaten by his brother bandits. After the revel the bandits escaped with $25,000 worth of liquor. Miss Conway is an aviatrix, an art student at Stanford University and a daughter of Bob Fowler, pioneer aviator.

STRIKE OF SOFT COAL MINERS IS BELIEVED CERTAIN DESPITE EFFORTS OF SECRETARY DAVIS

MRS. ISAAC RUSSELL DIES SUNDAY FROM PLEURAL PNEUMONIA

Pleural pneumonia claimed the life of Mrs. Isaac S. Russell, aged 37, 702 south Sixth-st., wife of the manager of two local theatres, at her home Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Her illness lasted only nine days.

For the past three years, Mrs. Russell had been assisting her husband in his Main-st theatre by selling tickets.

Her maiden name was Miss Cecilia Monahan. She was born and reared in Wheeling, W. Va. She was married in Wheeling to Mr. Russell, then of Wheeling.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell conducted a theatre in Dover for five years and in this city for the past three years. While in Dover, Mrs. Russell made many friends.

She was a member of the Spaulding club in this city. She was a member of the Catholic church, and for the past three years was affiliated with the Sacred Heart church here.

During her residence in this city Mrs. Russell had extended her circle of acquaintances. She was highly respected and admired by all who knew her.

The funeral services will be conducted at the Sacred Heart church, Tuesday morning at 8:30 o'clock with Father J. J. Slattery officiating. Following the services at the Catholic church Tuesday, the body will be shipped to its former home in Wheeling, W. Va., where burial will be made. The regular services will be held Tuesday at the St. Joseph Cathedral in Wheeling. Father Mosey, of Wheeling will have charge of the funeral.

Besides the husband, the following sisters and brother survive: Mrs. Mollie White, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mrs. Gus Schwartzbach, of Wheeling; Helen, Elizabeth and Thomas, all of Wheeling.

Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Motter, of Cincinnati and T. V. Davis, of Wheeling, relatives, were expected to arrive Monday for the funeral.

Out of respect the Sixth-st and the Mystic theatres will remain closed tonight, re-opening Tuesday.

CHILD RECOVERS

Leora Catherine, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Loos, 1033 north Tenth-st., was reported recovering from double pneumonia, Monday.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 13.—While a strike of soft coal miners is regarded as virtually certain, government officials renewed their efforts today to bring about a conference between operators and miners. Secretary of Labor Davis, altho disappointed at the attitude of certain operators in failing to agree to a council table gathering, is making other moves that may win over the rebellious operators. What these moves are, he declines to say, holding that their effect might be lost if they were publicly discussed at this time.

Officials who are handling the threatened bituminous strike are waiting with deep interest, the outcome of the conference between the operators and anthracite miners which will be held in New York March 15.

Word has reached Washington that some of the important groups of operators are going back to the November 1917 scale with the miners and are determined to go back to that scale whether or not the miners agree.

These operators claim that present living conditions and the state of the coal market warrant both sides returning to the 1917 scale. According to information that has reached officials handling the strike situation, the operators are perfectly willing to go along with the union men, but they are determined that nothing shall deter them from going back to the 1917 scale.

Thus a virtual deadlock has been reached in the negotiations which Secretary Davis has under way to bring the opposing sides together. Davis and his advisers are casting about for some plan to break this deadlock. Officials pointed out today that unless the railroad workers struck with the soft coal miners, the effect of the coal strike would not be appreciably felt for several weeks. For many weeks large stocks of coal have been going into storage and the government experts estimate that by April 1 when the strike is scheduled to begin, about 50,000,000 tons will be above ground. Non-union mines can be counted on to produce at once from 4,000,000 to 6,000,000 tons a week, which with the large stock now in storage will carry the country along comfortably for a considerable period.

"These facts are so apparent," said a high official today, "that the administration can only believe that both sides are endeavoring to bring on a strike."

LONG ILLNESS ENDS FATALLY, RESULT OF PNEUMONIA ATTACK

Mrs. Perry Crowthers, aged 62, died at her home in Perry, a mile west of Wilson Chapel in Perry, at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon from pneumonia.

She had been in ill health for several years suffering from complications and her condition was such that she contracted pneumonia a few days ago, which resulted in her death.

Her maiden name was Miss Ellen Beatty. She was born and reared in Coshocton. For the past 26 years she had resided in Perry. She had been a member of the Wilson Chapel for the past 30 years. This is a Methodist Episcopal church.

Besides the husband, three daughters and three sons survive. They are: Mrs. Della Speckman, New Castle; Lester Crowthers, of Danville, Va.; Charles Crowthers, Wallingford, O.; Oliver Crowthers, Nellie, and Miss Sadie of the home and Mrs. Carl Smith, of Nellie.

Two brothers, Joseph Beatty, and A. J. Beatty, both of New Castle, survive.

The funeral services will be held at the chapel Tuesday afternoon in charge of the Rev. Mr. McGrath, of Mohawk. Burial will be made in the Darling Run cemetery.

WALKOUT TO RESULT IN DISCHARGE FOR WORKMEN AT CLOWS

Employees of the Clow plant south of Coshocton who participated in a walkout from the factory Monday morning have been notified to report to the Clow club Monday evening where they will be paid off.

What the cause of the walkout was could not be learned from any of the Clow officials Monday. In each instance, when questioned, they answered with the statement, "I have nothing to say."

It was said that the men employed as moulders at the plant were the ones to go out. It is presumed that the trouble was in some way connected with union regulations, but union officials pleaded ignorance of the walkout when questioned Monday.

LABOR UNIONS FAIL TO MEET NEEDS OF THE WORKING CLASS

Boring From Within Will Be Hard To Cope With,
Says Council

FOSTER IS AGITATING
Would Inject Militancy Into Inactive Unions And Achieve Results

WASHINGTON, Mar. 13.—"That the labor unions have now a policy which fails to meet the needs of the working people has been seen for some time," says a bulletin of the Social Action Department of the National Catholic Welfare council, in commenting upon the formation of the Trade Union Educational league, under the leadership of Wm. Z. Foster, who organized the stock yards workers and later directed the great steel strike of 1919. "The bulletin described Foster's organization as 'communist in principle' and as being formed for the purpose of keeping the 'militant' element within the regular labor unions with the purpose of changing these organizations gradually into industrial unions, with the ultimate aim of affiliation of these American unions with the Trades Union International of Moscow."

"Because the labor unions are unable to solve the problem of unemployment," the statement says, "or raise the wages of all the working people to a decent standard, or appreciably advance the working people in city industry on the road towards a new status and dignity, the probability is that they will find it harder to resist the 'boring from within' tactics of the Trade Union Educational league."

"Observers of the situation are saying that the labor unions must change their tactics and emphasize the need for a fundamental change in the ownership and control of industry. This can follow the lines either of common ownership or of co-operative ownership, that is, either socialism or the recommendations of the bishops' program and the pastoral letter of the Catholic Hierarchy in this country. The Trade Union Educational league is organized to propagandize communism. No organization of working people has as yet been established to act as an educational organization pledged to co-operative ownership."

Leading up to this conclusion, the council gives an explicit account of the method of Foster's educational enterprise among the American workers. It states that "New labor unions are not intended. The league is flatly opposed to the formation of separate unions. It says that these separate unions, such as the I. W. O., have sapped the revolutionary strength from the labor unions and have made the union stagnant. . . . The local groups of the league are informal organizations. To help in keeping them free from suspicion of separate unions, charters are not issued to them, nor do the members pay dues or a per capita tax. It is supported by voluntary contributions and the sale of literature. The first week in March was the date set for the initial meeting of the local branches of the league. It was expected a month ago that at least 400 or 500 branches would be established by this time, and that by the end of March the groups would be ready to form a railroad educational organization."

The Catholic Welfare council calls attention to the fact that the official Catholic social action program in this country is co-operative, rather than communist, ownership and control of industry by the workers.

WILL GOVERNMENT GIVE AWAY WATER NOW LAND'S GONE?

ALBANY, N. Y.—The water power combine which for years has been diverting water from streams controlled by the state of New York without paying for it, today is in line to control 1,000,000 additional horsepower from Niagara Falls, according to a statement by M. H. Hoover, secretary, Political Union for Progress in Government, in a statement reviewing the situation. The statement says that the combine has bills before the legislature which would give over to the gigantic combination nine-tenths of the undeveloped water power of the state.

Hoover calls attention to the fact that a circular recently sent out to investors by the Niagara Falls Power Co., advertising its 7 per cent preferred stock, stresses the fact that this gift edge security is free from normal federal income tax, because its principle income is derived from a free grant of water power made by the United States.

The combine, in one of the bills it is attempting to get thru the legislature, is attempting to appropriate millions of the people's money for great hydro electric plants, with the provision that neither the state nor any municipality shall utilize this power to reduce the cost of living to adjacent residents.

Meantime, across the border in Ontario, public development, distribution and sale of electric power at cost has shown that millions of dollars annually can be saved to consumers under that system.

JOHANNESBURG, U. of S. A., Mar. 13.—Government forces engaged with the rebels in the mine fields are advancing along the entire line. Government leaders say that the whole military situation now favors the government. Nearly 200 have been killed and more than 1,000 wounded in the battle.

All the western and northern side of the reef are now held by government troops under General Brit.

Gen. Van Deventer's government forces are crowding back the rebels.

Heavy fighting is anticipated in the Benoni and Brakpan regions.

Continuous attacks with airplanes are being carried out against the revolutionaries. The rebels are being bombed and fired upon with machine guns.

Trench warfare is threatened in the Fordburg sector. The rebels hold the town and have thrown up earthworks all around it.

Houses at Benoni and Boksburg have been fired in reprisal for the death of a woman from a bomb.

The rebellion grew out of the mine strike on the Rand.

Large forces of farmers have responded to Premier General Smuts' call for volunteers to help the government troops.

General Smuts is directing the operations of the government troops in person. He declared that the position of the loyal forces is strong and that it should not take long to put down the uprising.

The regular infantry is supported by artillery, airplanes and armoured cars.

"The present revolutionary movement is the work of extremist agitators who have used the strike in the mine fields as a cloak for dissemination of the syndicalist views among the many workers who were unable to detect the danger and the futility of the campaign," said Gen. Smuts.

"The military positions are well in hand and with the co-operation of loyal citizens who are actively supporting the government, it should not take long to re-establish peaceful conditions. A general strike has been declared throughout the Union of South Africa, but the mass of workers and trade unionists in the centers of population outside the Rand have refused to be stampeded into it. The outstanding feature of the situation has been the behavior of the native population, who have shown exemplary forbearance and patience throughout. Fighting is in progress not only in and around Johannesburg, but in various parts of the mine fields, known as the Rand. The strikers include workers in the coal, iron, gold and diamond mines."

A bullet struck Gen. Smuts' motor car while he was driving toward the mine fields, but he was not injured. The incident had a narrow escape. The premier took place near Booyens during an exchange of volleys between military police and strikers.

A number of women have been killed during fusillades in this city, and suburbs. The morgues are choked with dead. The hospitals are overcrowded with wounded. Private houses are being converted into hospitals.

Two of the chief danger spots outside the city are Fordburg and Joppe. A four hour battle between government cavalry and a command of syndicalists at Joppe resulted in a victory for the cavalry. The rebels were trying to cut off the city's water supply. The cavalry lost six in killed and 15 wounded. The casualties of the rebels are not known.

The government troops have been carrying on a systematic campaign against the rebels, holding the Koppies outside the city. The rebels suffered a severe defeat at Britton ridge on Sunday morning. In addition to heavy casualties, they lost 1,500 in prisoners.

A member of a beer commando assisting the government forces at Krugersdorp was seized and shot down.

The father has been a large man in his younger days. Even now he stands six feet in height, altho his shoulders are drooping and his hair is mostly gray. He is 64 years old.

Two years after the death of Fred McBride's mother, Charles McBride married and has three children by his second wife. He has been farming back of Rowce for a number of years past and has established a reputation as an honest, God-fearing man.

Altho he has not had the immediate custody of his son Fred for 14 years, he feels keenly the trouble which has fallen to the lot of his son, and accepts a great part of the responsibility. SUPERINTENDENT TO HAVE COMMENCEMENT IN EACH TOWNSHIP

Instructions for the staging of united school commencements in every township in the county were given chairmen of the commencement committees, by L. C. Shaw, superintendent of county schools, at his office in the Tribune building Saturday afternoon.

The plan is to have a commencement for every grade of every school in all of the townships. Previous to this time, very few grad schools have had commencements.

A teacher from each township has been named chairman of a committee to have charge of the exercises, and these chairmen were called to the office of the superintendent, Saturday.

It has been found that the commencements stimulate more interest in the schools than any other form of action taken by the schools.

Arrangements will be made to hold a joint commencement of all the schools in each township in one centrally located building.

Each grade will be represented in the exercises by a class speaker.

Certificates of graduation to the class above will be distributed to the pupils just before the close of the graduation exercises.

SELBY COMPANY WILL BUILD STORE ROOMS NEAR BARNES HOTEL

The Renfrew property opposite the Pennsylvania depot, on Fifth-st between the Adams Express Co. building and the Barnes hotel building, changed ownership Saturday for the first time since before the Civil war. The property was purchased by the E. O. Selby Investment Co., from Renfrew thru Floyd Hall, executor.

Work will be begun immediately by the Selby Investment Co., to break the ground between the Express Co. building and the Barnes hotel for the purpose of building small attractive store rooms. The rooms will face Fifth-st. In the rear of the building, being erected by Mr. Selby, there will be a warehouse and factory room erected by Mr. Selby.

The new store rooms will be fronted with show windows. The floors will be made of hardwood and the roof will be tile. The rooms will be handsomely decorated.

Henry L. Richardson has the contract to build the new store rooms. The Selby Investment Co. is incorporated under the laws of Ohio.

Batteries Wear Out for Two Good Reasons

Every battery has two kinds of wear—the natural slow wear due to use, and the more rapid wear that comes from abuse.

Keep the proper amount of water in your battery by putting in a little every two weeks. Test with the hydrometer to make sure there's enough charge. Come in to Battery Headquarters at the first faint sign of trouble.

Then your battery will wear out slowly and gradually, giving you uninterrupted service at lowest cost per month and per mile.

While working for Clark he got in to trouble over petty thefts of money. At that time he was reproved by his father and the trouble was settled.

"I have always tried to teach Fred and his brother, Jess, who lives in Portland Indiana, to do the right thing," the father said Saturday, "but Fred never seemed to be able to keep out of trouble."

"He was kind-hearted, and was al-

"When the boy's mother was on her deathbed she called the two of them to her side and said, 'Boys, whatever you do, don't get into trouble. Be good men. Mind your mother.' As the old man spoke his voice broke a little, and a tear stole down either cheek."

"I can't go to see my boy. It is too long a trip for me and I haven't the money to spend. Jess sent Fred $50. I don't know where he could afford it or not, but he said he sent it."

"I don't know what they will do with him. I can't bear to think of it. Maybe he had some good reason for doing what he did."

Long Distance Wires Buzzed With Excitement!

The news of our great THREE-DOLLAR SALE spread like fire throughout the shoe world. Makers were quick in putting new propositions before us. Telegrams poured in upon us. "HOW MANY MORE SHOES AND OXFORDS CAN YOU USE AT THE 'RIGHT' PRICE?" they flashed.

Makers having big surpluses on hand were glad to turn them into cash.

WE BOUGHT AND BOUGHT AND BOUGHT!

New shipments have arrived. Thousands of more have been added to the sale. NONE IN THE LOT MADE TO SELL FOR LESS THAN $6.00—THE GREATER NUMBER OF THEM $8, $10 AND $12 VALUES.

Tomorrow men can come and choose from among all of them for

THREE DOLLARS

This is the greatest sale in our history. It is the largest and most amazing stock of Shoes ever gathered together under a single roof in Coshocton.

THEY ARE THE FINEST SHOES WE HAVE SEEN OFFERED AT THE PRICE IN MORE THAN TEN YEARS.

Men of Coshocton have proved conclusively in the past that THEY KNOW REAL VALUES WHEN THEY SEE THEM.

We have held some very wonderful sales as all men who have attended these events must admit—BUT HERE IS

A Sale That Will Knock the Town Cold

All we ask is that men examine these Shoes with an unbiased eye, note particularly that they are hand-sewed—that they are fashioned of fine, dependable leathers—in patterns and shades that appeal to men of good taste.

Men's Shoes, Young Men's Shoes, Sport Shoes—double and single soled styles—practically everything. And Oxfords galore—also Work Shoes. All sizes.

Shrewd, hard-headed men won't overlook such an opportunity as this.

Great Surprise Planned By Women's Shoe Buyer

"We won't let men of Coshocton have all the bargains," said our buyer of Women's Shoes. They hurried to New York, going from manufacturer to manufacturer, asking for $8.00 to $10 Spring Shoes that could be retailed at $3.00. They met with such wonderful co-operation that they procured hundreds upon hundreds of the most wonderful values in that have been offered in Coshocton in a great many seasons at the price.

Even WE are amazed at the wonderful values in this sale.

Women ought to be waiting for the doors to open when high-grade Spring Shoes like these may be had for

THREE DOLLARS

If you could witness the enthusiasm of our own Salespeople as these Shoes are being taken from the cases and arranged for tomorrow's selling, you would feel certain that this sale of new Spring Shoes at Three Dollars will set a new record.

Just think of being able to buy for $3.00 SPRING SHOES, produced by manufacturers whose Shoes are retailed in the leading stores of this country for not less than Eight Dollars. Many of them ordinarily $12.00 and even $15.00.

All Are New Spring Styles

"Tanlac Certainly Did A Hundred Per Cent Job In Restoring My Strength," Declares Akron Citizen

"Tanlac has simply made a clean sweep of all my troubles and built me up to where I am a strong and healthy man again," said Wm. N. Martin, well-known brick mason, 1164 Belmont St. Akron, Ohio.

"My troubles started with the flu, which left me almost helpless and the worst part of it was, I didn't seem to have power to rally again. My stomach was all upset and there were times after eating when I had a mean, stuffy feeling and felt I would give the world if I could just get one long breath. I was very much worried and began to think it wouldn't be long before I would lay my last brick."

"Tanlac has simply made a new man out of me and I am strong for it. It did a hundred per cent job in my case."

Tanlac is sold in Coshocton by Siegrist & Williams and leading druggists everywhere.

DON'T PLANT WEEDS IN THE FRONT YARD

Read The Label And Avoid Low-Priced Lawn Seed, Says Specialist

Many Ohioans will sow weeds in their lawns this spring unless they learn to distinguish high-grade from low-grade seed. Quantities of weedy lawn seed are being offered for sale all over Ohio at this time.

This is the statement of crops specialists at the Ohio State University, issued after examining brands of grass seed bot in Columbus. The fault is said to lie less with the seedsmen than with a public not aware that cheap seeds prove in the end the most expensive.

"The new Ohio pure seed law requires the seedsmen to mark percentage of purity on the package," says C. J. Willard, who makes the statement for his department. "This law, however, will not fully accomplish its purpose until the public learns to read the label, and not to buy seed priced around a quarter a pound."

"One sample which this department has just examined is marked to contain 4 percent of foreign seeds. The magnifying glass shows that this 4 percent includes a large number of noxious weeds. The sample is marked '49 percent pure.' It includes trash and a large proportion of coarse grasses."

"Accompanying the statement of purity, the following rather naive statement appears on the package: 'While we spare no pains to exclude weed seeds, we would caution the purchaser not to expect first growth on any rich land to be free from weeds.'"

"Read the label before you buy grass seed."

Financial Letter

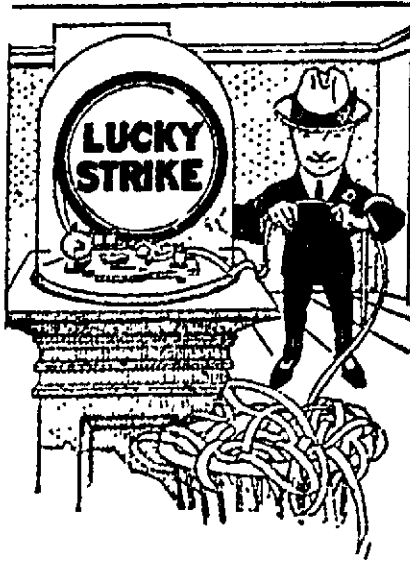

NEW YORK, Mar. 13.—President Harding's decision not to send delegates to the Conference at Genoa is undoubtedly dictated in some measure by the unfriendly attitude of the Senate toward the Washington Arms Conference treaties. The current statement of Senator Lodge that the Four Power Treaty is in danger and that, should it be defeated, the work of the Arms Conference would go for nothing illustrates the situation and shows why there is so much reluctance to incur any more foreign commitments to which we should have trouble in gaining the support of Congress. These factors, taken with the English political situation, still unsettled as it is, sufficiently explain recent reactions in exchange rates which, however, all things considered, have been very moderate.

Bonus Still a Menace.
The fact that the soldiers' bonus, instead of being disposed of, is still a serious menace, became evident in the early part of the past week, when the Ways and Means Committee determined upon a plan, previously only rumored, whereby the proposed payments should be made in 'certificates' discountable at the banks, and, of course, rediscountable at Reserve banks. The plan has been denounced by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon as the worst form of the bonus yet proposed, and such it undoubtedly is. Dangerous inflation would necessarily result from it, with the result that the soldier would probably pay many times over in the form of higher prices what he received in cash. The danger inherent in such a scheme is so great that further comment is unnecessary. Fortunately, there is good reason for believing that the measure will either be defeated or be killed by the President's veto.

Confidence in Industrials.
The market has shown a growing confidence in the industrial outlook, which is illustrated by the fact that both steel production and steel shares show encouraging increase in value, while the volume of output in a number of other lines is distinctly increasing from week to week. Against this hopeful trade situation, the continued disclosure of unfavorable operating results for the past year has only a limited influence. The Midvale Steel report, showing a deficit of $5,300,000, and that of the General Motors Company, with a deficit of $38,700,000, reflect conditions which have already been well known, and stocks accordingly show the buoyant effects of present business outlook rather than the depressing effects of past losses. A like situation in the sugar trade is seen in the gain of most of the Cuban issues in value, as well as of the domestic refining shares, despite the $5,300,000 deficit reported by American Sugar for last year. New signs of encouragement are now seen in the shoe and leather trade, while authentic returns from the Western States point to a fresh development of new building, which has already put the volume of permits issued more than 100 per cent above the corresponding levels of last year.

Utilities and the Gas Decision.
It has been only what was expected that the decision of the Supreme Court in the Consolidated Gas case should have exerted a powerful influence upon market sentiment, as well as upon quotations. Pronounced increases in gas stocks were, of course, looked for, and realized. The sweeping character of the decision lies in its establishment of the principle that the property of public utility concerns is entitled to a fair return of income. This has naturally influenced the stocks of other utility enterprises, and has resulted in a strong confidence not only of gas shares, but also, sympathetically, of tractions and a variety of allied stocks. By releasing about $20,000,000 to Consolidated Gas and its subsidiaries the decision apparently renders dividends on these issues secure. Coupled with the fact that the Class I railroads thus far reporting show an increase of about $24,000,000 in net income over last year for January, the events of the past week make a much more promising state of things for the shares of public service concerns, from railroads to tractions and gas issues.

The week's banking and financial reports show continued strength, reductions in so-called surplus reserves being of little importance under the present organization of reserve banking. Advances in accommodation at some of the Reserve banks show revival of demand on the part of commercial customers and run parallel to the better development of business in some parts of the country. Increasing confidence is expressed in the generous financing of the forthcoming crop season, bankers being convinced that the higher agricultural prices have come to stay. Meantime, there is no prospect that any demands likely to be brot to bear will exhaust more than a small portion of the available lending power of the banking system. The ratio of the twelve Federal Reserve banks now stands at 77.3 per cent, a gain of 1.1 per cent, with a larger supply of gold on hand than ever, the total being this week $2,956,900,000.

Market Review and Outlook
The course of the market this week has afforded convincing evidence that it is resting on a firm foundation. Such slight reactions as take place now and then are without serious importance and indicate little more than temporary speculative fluctuations. The truth is, of course, that great absorbing power has been developed, which is capable of taking nearly all stocks, especially when they are offered at moderate concessions. This is due to the fact that most people who own them are imbued with the idea that their properties are worth more money, therefore are unwilling to part with them. Under such circumstances, and notwithstanding that the demand from the public is still modest, it does not require any great amount of buying to bring about advances practically all along the line, altho for special reasons certain stocks are more promising than others. This is particularly true with regard to the rails, the capital stocks of which have remained stationary for a number of years, with the result that the floating supply has been reduced to very small proportions. Besides, with the economies that have been introduced most railroads are now able to not only meet interest and other fixed charges but are also able to earn dividends, and under the terms of the Transportation Act it is not at all unlikely that a number of

GIRL STUDENTS TO MEET

While the flapper holds the center of the stage, there is growing up on every college campus—girls of the opposite type—earnest, idealistic, thoughtful, eager to take their share of responsibility for a better world. "We are on trial today before the eyes of a critical scrutinizing public," says Miss Welch. "Little is said about the constructive things we do but dress, speech, and amusements of today are all blamed on us." The National Student Assembly is made up of the 736 College Y. W. C. NEW SELLING ARRANGEMENT

A new selling arrangement for notions and small wares has recently been installed in the Ransom Dry Goods store, which they call this "Self Serve" notion section.

It is located just inside the front door and so arranged that customers can inspect almost the entire notion line at one time and it is believed that this store's patrons will gradually learn to serve themselves. It is pointed out by the management that this new grouping will do much to speed up the service during the rush hours and will no doubt prove a decided advantage as soon as the trade becomes accustomed to using it.

British Lion's Tail Gets Awful Twisting

Four sections of the British empire today are seething with political unrest. They are South Africa, India, Egypt and Ireland. A state of actual warfare exists in the Rand mine fields of South Africa, where government troops are trying to put down the uprising. Disorders are reported from India where Mahatma Gandhi, chief leader of the Nationalists is under arrest. Political reforms promised to Egypt have, for the time being, allayed fighting in that quarter. A strong faction of the Irish Republican army is supporting Eamon DeValera in his demand for a republic in Ireland. Three of the British overseas dominions remaining tranquil are Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

THEY'LL BE BUSY AT APPLE-BLOSSOM TIME

Farmers Who Then Fail To Spray Twice Will Lose Out, Say Scientists

Apple blossom time this year will bring to a climax extraordinary efforts to persuade Ohio fruit growers as to the absolute necessity of two sprayings about that time. Orchard specialists of the Ohio State University who make this announcement say that the first blossom spray, generally the second spray of the season, should be applied precisely at that time when buds have swelled to a point where the pink shows, but before the bud opens. This affords "pre-blossom" application the big chance to wipe out blight, black rot, and scab, all of which troubles took firm foothold last year when a spring freeze killed the crop and many farmers, discouraged, did not spray.

The third spray known as the "petal-fall" spray, is self-descriptive as to time of application and can never be omitted by the man "who sprays at all," say the specialists. "Freedom from worms in apples depends on it."

The college and the experiment station have prepared a spray calendar, giving the time of application and recommended formula of all orchard sprays. This calendar is sent anyone who writes for it to the experiment station at Wooster or to the extension offices of the college at Columbus.

Many Ohio farmers will take advantage of the first open weather to apply lime sulphur, 1 to 7 the first, or delayed dormant, spray of the season, recommended to be applied only when the trees are bare.

"Potatoes Under Straw" Has Cultural Merits

The old fashioned way of growing potatoes under straw has some merits, according to the department of horticulture, Ohio Experiment Station. After the potatoes are planted but little additional work is required until digging time and the yields under this method of culture are usually quite favorable. It is necessary, however, to use only a well-drained soil and in a wet season the tubers may be subject to decay.

The seed pieces are planted about 12 by 24 inches and covered very lightly with earth; then a five or six inch layer of straw is covered over the entire surface. From 15 to 20 tons of straw will be required for an acre so that this method of culture is usually only practicable to farmers having a large amount of straw. The harvesting requires the removal of the straw as the potatoes will be found on or near the surface.

OR AT ALL, PERHAPS

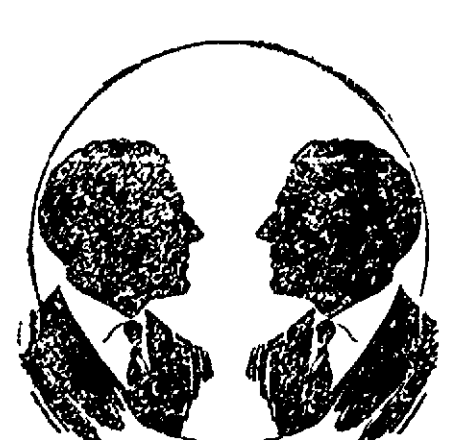

PARIS, Mar. 13. — It was officially stated this afternoon that the allied powers do not regard the Versailles treaty as giving them a first mortgage upon German indemnity payments and priority over American claims. The only question it was said was the method of payment. Nobody dreams of collecting the entire 132 billion gold marks before paying America for the cost of keeping her army of occupation on the Rhine, the statement added.

ALL SIGNS POINT TO BETTER FARM PRICES

Say College Economists After Analysis Of Supply And Demand Factors

For the first time since 1920, rural economists of the Ohio State University, having completed one of their monthly market surveys, predict better times for the man on the land. This prediction they base on large exports which have left in this country no more than the normal supply of farm products, and on the fact that the present disparity between farm and manufacturing prices is abnormal and cannot last.

"During 1921 wheat exports exceeded by 15 per cent the export in 1920," says J. I. Falconer, head of the Department of Rural Economics. "There do not appear to be excessive stocks of farm products, except corn, on hand at the present time. This points toward better prices."

"Other facts indicate that the present unfavorable situation in farm prices cannot long endure. During the 15 years before the war, American farm production increased 40 per cent while the output of manufactured products increased 35 per cent. Farm products prices naturally increased more rapidly than those of manufactured goods. This would seem to be the normal condition, as a country like the United States will always find it more difficult to increase agricultural

CLEVELAND, Mar. 13. — One of those who make hard goods at home are blaming their down-fall on the wind today. A zephyr that wended its way into the third precinct police station carried on it a pronounced odor of mash. The police followed the smell to its source and found forty-three fifty gallon barrels full of mash, one 50 gallon and two 30 gallon stills and 30 gallons of the distilled product.

Philip David, tenant of the house, was arrested.

Fordney's Latest Bonus Fake

THERE is probably not a man in the lower house of congress who believes that that latest legislative monstrosity, the so-called bonus bill, to which the house has given birth, will ever become a law. It is only due the ordinary intelligence most of these men possess to say that not one in ten honestly wants it to become a law.

But they are smitten by the political bug and they have come to believe, thru the importunities of the bonus lobby in Washington, that if they want to be returned to congress at the coming fall election they must vote affirmatively on a bill which is so badly drawn and so plain an affront to their own intelligence and to the soldiers of the nation as well, as to carry its own condemnation in its every provision.

Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee is determined to force the bill thru the lower house, secretly placing his trust in the superior courage of the senate to kill a measure he and his colleagues know has no right to live. The whole truth is congress is frightened by the prospect of an election. It knows it has failed in every essential respect since it was sworn in more than a year ago. Now that another election looms in the near future, the prospect of capturing votes is not so inviting as it was on the eve of the great political landslide in November, 1920.

The other devices which Mr. Fordney was depending upon to catch votes have not panned out well. The tariff that he talked about a year ago is about as far from completion as it seemed then. Consequently it is not surprising that, despite its manifest dangers and absurdities, the house may place its stamp of approval on Fordney's bonus folly merely for the purpose of its appeal in the pending campaign.

Even Mr. Fordney must begin to know that the present congress has failed in impressing the people with its worthiness. Men in public life are prone to read the things which are favorable to them. But where shall Mr. Fordney and his colleagues seek and find favorable comment? Certainly not in the Republican press, if there is such a thing as a Republican—or Democratic—press left in the country. The few staunch Republican organs, such as The Boston Transcript and The New York Tribune, have said quite as harsh things about the Fordney congress as their opponents.

The latter paper has never been in sympathy with the Fordney tariff views and it has been quite as frank as the rest of the New York papers in condemning the bonus proposition, and especially in its latest form. The Boston organ of the G. O. P., the most influential party organ in New England, has also denounced both the tariff output and the bonus plans of Mr. Fordney's committee. Of congress in a general way it declared the other day that the present house, judged by the performances of its first year, is unmistakably the worst house the American people have elected in twenty years.

And so it goes. So much opposition has developed to any sort of a bonus payment at this time, within and without the ranks of the soldiers, that it is now a question whether it will make or lose more votes in the coming campaign. Certainly in its present form it will cost its votaries in the house more support than it will win them and this fact, as it dawns on the house, is beginning to send cold shivers down the congressional spine.

It is for this reason that the members of the house, regardless of party, hail the passing of the bonus nightmare from their tender mercies to those of the upper branch. It is needless to say that a substantial majority of the men in the lower branch are hoping that the senate will possess the courage of its convictions and pigeon hole the measure until a more propitious day. It is altogether likely that the senate will at least prove less glib than the house. As The New York Tribune said upon receipt of Fordney's latest bonus effusion: "Few members of either branch believe in the justice or the decency of the proposed measure."

It goes without saying that if the house had any faith in this bill it would not hesitate to provide means for paying for the bonus. But it is passing a specious, ill-advised measure up to the senate without a single provision by which the funds for the bonus may be raised and no sooner had it given this exhibition of silly cowardice than the controller of the currency promptly announces that he will advise the banks not to lend money on what he characterizes "this crazy bill."

And so it goes. The American people are watching the pitiable exhibition of their representatives and drawing their own conclusions. The chances are that, with the facts all plainly set before them, they will not now allow the members who support this proposal to make any political capital out of it. The people are not averse to paying a debt of honor. With practical unanimity they want the sick and maimed and all physically incapacitated soldiers cared for to the end of their lives, but they do not propose to sanction the conversion of a noble sentiment into a vote catching scheme of a few hundred spineless, convictionless congressmen.

And even if the senate displays as little honesty as the house has done, both branches are pinning their faith to the president. Members of both branches have openly expressed the hope that the executive will make up for the shortcomings of both branches and place his unequivocal veto on this bill, should the senate permit it to reach him.

New York Day-By-Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Mar. 13.—A page from 'fresh fruits now so plentiful below the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up and walked in the new Ghetto along Madison avenue and bought some fruits from a pretty lady with brave rings in her ears. And saw too a trained goat. Going to the avenue I met a strange sight, a lady's dress having caught fire from a cigarette and shopkeepers had drenched her with water. She gave out a box on the ear.

Met A. Hart, the silk merchant, and he took me to an inn, fashioned like a Pullman car, and there had eat and drink. Came a high officer of the police who said things were never so bad in the city what with gaming, drinking and the like.

Stopped in at E. Shinn's and played a tune or two on his zither, mighty sweet they were too albeit I broke two strings and sneaked away. Home where I put away some clothes against moths and wrote a laborious letter to a kinsman.

In the evening came T. Millard and Major Bassett and their ladies and to the Cafe Royal, paying the highest covert charge ever I paid viz $3 a person and then to see Balloff, the Russian connoisseur, but in such humor I could not enjoy his drolleries. So home again and to bed.

The South Sea craze has invaded home functions. One of the smartest affairs of the season was given in a $20,000 a year Park Avenue apartment by a millionaire bachelor. The guests came in Polynesian dress with their flesh stained and there was an artificial pond in the center of which was an island, banked in huge fringed palms. Two dozen parrots chattered in the foliage and there was a small street of huts to which the guests went for their food. The novelty was afforded by having all of the drinks on the island and the guests had to wade to it to assuage their thirst.

It is the habit of Broadway's blatant little exotists of the chorus to spill many scolding tears when the home and mother songs are sung. You fancy the mothers, saintly gray haired women in little lace caps, sitting at the farmhouse windows reading the good book.

In one of the cabarets the other night a hefty soprano began to top high notes with musky lyrics of another love sentiment. A snubnosed little girl in a flaming red dress—and little pearls at her throat failed to applaud.

"Wasn't that beautiful, dearie?" sniffed a friend.

"It makes me laff" was the reply. "My mother slapped me in a reform school when I was 12 and the last time I was home she beamed me with the parlor clock. The only time she ever told me good-by was when I left home for good."

New York is getting the first of the

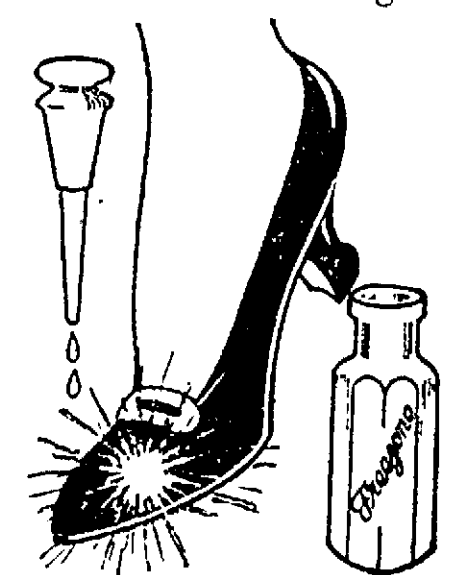

WALT MASON

RAIN AND DROUTH

The water's piled in my front yard, all kinds of water, soft and hard, and still the rain comes slopping down, and saturates the weary town. The rain against the window pane, and catfish throng the village streets, and even frogs and ducks are tired; they have more rain than they desired. And while the day's so wildly wet, I read the Gophertown Gazette, the old home paper that has but for years its freight of Gems of Thot. And back in Gophertown, it seems, all dried up are the babbling streams; there is no water in the wells; a parching population yells for just a little slice of rain, and all its yelling is in vain. No rain clouds gather in the sky, the river beds are dusty dry, while fish sit up along the bank and gasp for something fit to drink. The weather bureau should reform; why does it always send a storm where there should be a cloudless sky, and send a drouth where it is dry? Why does it drench the western coast, and dodge the plains that need rain most? Why am I always stuck in mud, or battling thru a turbid flood, while other fellows voice their wrath because they "cannot have a bath"? The weather bureau makes me tired; all winter long it's kept me mired.

PLAINFIELD NOW HAS HIGH SCHOOL OF SECOND GRADE

Graduates of the Plainfield high school will be given a second grade diploma this year instead of a third grade diploma, such as has been given graduates heretofore.

Application for the second class charter was made by the Plainfield school board last fall thru L. C. Shaw, county superintendent of schools.

The charter has just been received. Once before the school had a second class charter, but inspection by the state school men revealed that the school did not meet the equipment requirement of a second grade school. The charter was taken away and a third grade charter replaced it.

Recently a great deal of money has been spent on the school to bring it up to the required standard of the second grade schools.

H. L. Dilling is principal of the school, M. G. Emmer, assistant principal, Mrs. Charles McKee grammar school teacher, and Miss Delora Criswell, primary school teacher.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

DEPLORING PESSIMISM

Editor Tribune:

Dear Sir: Have been reading with interest some of the letters of readers and contributors to the forum. I cannot see why there is so many pessimists in this world. They are eternally saying that the world is going to the bad and that the youth of today are many times worse than the youth of yesterday. If this were as true as is so often stated we would not have to go back many years till we would find a generation of saints.

History never told us of such an age. Did not Adam and Eve sin in the Garden, did not Noah sin, did not Rome fall because of the folly of its people? Must we then condemn the modern youth or modern girl because some of them or any of them are not saints? Is it not the environment that makes the child, the home that makes the nation? Can we improve the children of today by robbing the home of all pleasure or appeal for the child and going out on the house-top and proclaiming that children of today are not what we were when we were children?

As for one sex condemning the other that too is folly. How long can one get along without the other. God saw that man was not complete so he made a woman.

I think the modern girl is marvelous. She so completely proved this during the past war. Now men don't you think it folly to condemn them because they bob their hair or wear their skirts shorter? Don't statistics prove that there are less accidents with these styles? If some of you men were forced to wear long skirts and sent out on a shopping tour you might be able to pass an opinion on them. Perhaps you want the women of America to adopt the Hindi styles and slave for their adorable husbands?

Now let us get together and boost this old country of ours, make the homes more appealing to the youth of today, look for the good that is in others and not continually condemn them. You can tell a boy he is bad and continue to scold him for his badness and soon you will have a sure enough bad-boy. How much better it would have been for them to praise the good in that boy and he would have tried to keep in the good will of the parents.

Let's all be boosters. There are

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

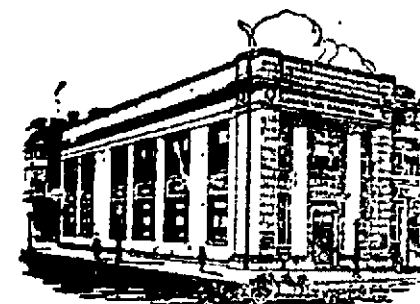

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath. Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

INVESTIGATION IS SHOWING FLAWS IN CEMETERY RECORDS

Owners Of Single Graves And Burial Lots Asked To Establish Title

An investigation of the city cemetery department which is in process now, is revealing that many single graves and cemetery lots have either not been paid for or the receipt of the cash has not been entered on the records, according to a statement issued by Mayor W. S. Tish Saturday evening.

To aid in clearing up records, owners of single graves and burial lots in the South Lawn cemetery, who have purchased the ground within the last three years, are requested to present their receipts for payment at the office of the service director.

A publication of this request, signed by the mayor, is made in another section of the newspaper.

When a single grave is sold, a marker bearing the letter "S" is inserted on the plot of ground. Many vacant graves in the South Lawn cemetery bear these markers, but a corresponding receipt for the payment of the price of the graves cannot be found in the cemetery records, the mayor said.

Owners of burial lots will be given a certified deed to the property by presenting their receipts at the safety director's office.

If claims to the lots, for which there are no cash receipts entries, are not established within a certain length of time, the lots will be sold, whether marked with an "S" or not, according to Mayor Tish.

Western Seed Oats May Contain Smut

Due to the unusual amount of seed oats coming into the state, the department of botany, Ohio Experiment Station, calls attention of Ohio farmers to the fact that such oats may contain considerable smut, but which may be controlled by the formalin treatment.

Campains for the eradication of smut in Ohio were carried on extensively several years ago so that the disease on Ohio grown oats was checked.

The treatment consists in sprinkling piles of grain on a tight floor or canvas with a solution of formalin. It is put in 10 gallons of water. One gallon of solution will treat one bushel of grain.

The grain is then shoveled so that every kernel is moistened. One gallon of solution will treat a bushel of seed. Three or four hours after treatment the grain is spread out to dry.

It is believed that there is a scarcity of seed oats in Ohio because of the poor yield and quality of last year's crop.

WAR DECLARED BY SOUTH ON THE 2 WORMS

Cotton Growers United For Stamping Out Pink Boll And Weevil

WASHINGTON, Mar. 13.—War to the death on the boll weevil and the pink boll worm has been declared by Southern cotton growers today.

Inroads of the insect menaces now threaten serious curtailment of the South's cotton crop, and unless the government heeds the appeals of cotton growers their business faces bankruptcy.

Losses to producers are mounting up annually at an alarming rate. Statistics available today show that in the 1912-13 season the insect pest destroyed 19.2 pounds of cotton per acre. That destruction continued rising until in 1920 the army worm, the boll weevil and the pink boll worm created havoc in the cotton fields and destroyed 73.5 per cent of the crop.

Much Cotton Lost

Unfavorable climatic conditions, plant diseases and loss through exposure while in transit mount up the adversities the cotton grower constantly faces. The season 1918-19 saw millions of pounds of cotton scrapped from bales of worthless staple, caked and rotted from mud and water.

Statistics show that during the past nine years the average quantity of cotton marketed from September to February has been 50.42 per cent of the year's handling. One of the contributing loss causes is the rush with which crops are hastened to the market, according to Governor John M. Parker, of Louisiana.

"In some years in the fall every avenue of transportation has been taxed to its utmost," declared Governor Parker, explaining the cotton growers' troubles.

"Rush Not Exceptional"

"Last year, for example notwithstanding a holding movement, which kept back about 2,000,000 bales of the year's growth, more than 8,000,000 bales were rushed from plantations from September to February, inclusive, and the year before, out of a total of 12,143,000 bales, the first six months' movement was in excess of 10,000,000. The rush is not exceptional.

The yearly percentage does not materially vary. Defective terminals, inadequate storage facilities, and away from farms and plantations and a general indifference seem to attach to the cotton bale. There are some exceptions, however.

"If there were not the doom of the cotton farmer would have long since been pronounced."

FADS AND FANCIES IS A COOK'S TOUR OF MUSICAL COMEDY

For several days the Knights of Columbus club rooms in the Tribune building have been the scene of the rehearsals for "Fads and Fancies of 1922" the forthcoming musical revue that is to be staged at the Sixth Street theatre on the evenings of March 21-22, by the American Legion.

Among the participants whose services have been secured may be mentioned, Klarna Bradford, Helen Moore, Mildred Kirkpatrick, Margaret Jobe, Bob Vogel, Sam. Cardwell, Russell Jacobs, Margaret Robson, Harold Brink, Minnie Bible, Bob Gauley, and Thelma Ward.

Speed is the keynote of the entire production and a welcome change from the haphazard "what-will-we-do-next" affairs which usually characterize amateur shows.

Four Diseases Attack Raspberries In Ohio

Four serious raspberry diseases, any one of which may destroy a berry plantation in a short time, are prevalent in Ohio, according to W. J. Young, department of botany, Ohio Experiment Station. These are crown gall, yellows, anthracnose and cane blight.

Crown gall causes irregular swellings near the base of the canes and on the roots. Yellows bring about crinkly, dwarfed leaves mottled with yellow.

Anthracnose shows as purple spots with gray centers giving the canes a scabby appearance. With cane blight the canes die back and the bark becomes discolored.

Spraying with Bordeaux mixture is useful in controlling anthracnose and cane blight but is not effective against crown gall and yellows.

Recommendations for control are:

"Use care to set only healthy rasp berry plants. Reject any plants showing crown gall or anthracnose spots. If possible visit the nursery during the growing season to make sure that the stock is free from yellows and cane blight."

"As soon as possible after the fruit is picked, cut out and burn the old canes and any which appear diseased. Dig out and burn all plants affected with yellows as soon as discovered."

"When the plantation becomes so badly diseased that it no longer gives a profitable crop, it should be taken out and a new plantation started as far as possible from old plantings and on land which has not grown raspberries for several years."
